HISTORY OF THE UIL

The University Interscholastic League was created by The University of Texas at Austin in 1910 through the Extension Bureau to provide leadership and guidance to public school debate and athletics teachers. After approval from the University of Texas, the UIL's two parent organizations - the Debating League of Texas and the Interscholastic Athletic Association - became operational.

In 1913, the Debating

League and the Athletic Association merged to form the University Interscholastic League, which was centered in the Bureau of Public School Services, then part of the University of Texas Extension Division. Today, the League continues to operate as part of The University of Texas at Austin, under the auspices of the Office of the Vice President for Diversity and Community Engagement.

The UIL has grown into the largest interschool organization of its kind in the world, offering more than 70 events.

UIL BASEBALL CELEBRATES 65 YEARS

By
Chris Schmidt

Baseball had a humble beginning as a UIL sport. Even though play began in a small way in 1947, only 30 schools out of the 469 that signed up reported the outcome of their seasons to the state office.

It wasn't until 1949 that the UIL held its first state championship in baseball, crowning state champions in the City Conference and Conference 2A. The first state championships were held at Disch Field in Austin (2A) and Burnett Field in Dallas (City), both of which were homes to minor league baseball teams at the time.

More than 630 schools and 9,900 student-athletes competed in 1949, which was up by more than 1,000 student-athletes from the previous year. Participation in baseball grew with the addition of a state championship, and as more schools built night facilities for baseball, schools saw increased attendance and a reduced loss of school time. Last year, more than 46,000 student-athletes participated in UIL baseball.

Some of the more interesting rules from the first years of state tournament play were that only student players were allowed in the coach's box while the coach was requested to remain in the dugout. All tournament games were played to seven innings, as they are today, but the final game could go to nine innings with mutual consent from both teams.

After a brief hiatus from crowning two state champions in the early 1950s, the UIL returned to a two-conference state championship in 1957 with Conferences 3A and 4A competing. It was the first year for two conferences to be crowned state champions on the same field as all teams played at Disch Field in Austin.

In 1965, Alvin High School star pitcher Nolan Ryan advanced to the state tournament after the ace threw a no-hitter – something he would become known for – in the regional final against Brenham High School. After striking out nine batters in a two-hit shutout in the state semifinal, Ryan and his team advanced to the state championship game where they lost a 6-3 decision to Waxahachie High School. Ryan would go on to become one of only two Texas high school graduates elected into the Baseball Hall of Fame by the Baseball Writers' Association of America (Ernie Banks of Dallas Washington High School was inducted in 1977).

Another one of the greatest pitchers in Texas high school baseball history, David Clyde of Houston Westchester High School, made state tournament appearances in 1972 and 1973. As a senior, Clyde went 18-0 and only gave up three earned runs in 148-innings pitched. No more than 20 days after pitching his team to a semifinal win against Galena Park to advance to the state championship game, he was on the mound for the Texas Rangers striking out eight batters in a 4-3 win over the Minnesota Twins. Clyde still holds several national high school baseball records, including most shutouts and most strikeouts in a career (see pages 38-39 for more information). In 2009, he was inducted into the NFHS National High School Hall of Fame.

In 1979, state tournament play was expanded to all five conferences, B-4A. For the first time in Texas baseball history, state champions were crowned in every conference that participated in the sport. In previous years, smaller conferences only played to the regional or bi-district level. Although the names of the conferences have changed, baseball still crowns five state champions

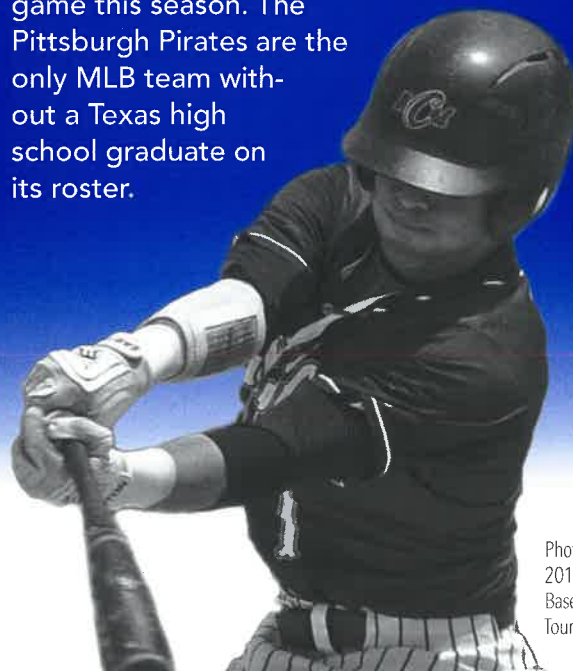

After the closure of Disch Field in 1967, state tournament games alternated between Nelson Field and the Burger Center in Austin until it found a more permanent home in 1975 with the construction of Disch-Falk Field (later renamed UFCU Disch-Falk Field) on the campus of The University of Texas at Austin. Since its inaugural season, a high school baseball state champion has been crowned on the field at Disch-Falk every year except for one. In 2007, the stadium did not host a state final due to renovation projects.

In 2000, the Dell Diamond officially joined the ranks of UIL Baseball State Tournament venues.

The Texas high school baseball state tournament has garnered an impressive history in its 65 years. From standout performers to elite venues, the state championships never seem to disappoint. With participation growing, the future of baseball in the Lone Star State is brighter than ever.

UIL QUICK FACTS

- The first UIL Baseball State Tournaments were held in 1949 at Disch Field in Austin and Burnett Field in Dallas. El Paso Bowie High School took home the 2A crown while Dallas Adamson won the City Conference state title in the first year that schools played to a state championship.
- There have been 21 no-hitters thrown in the 63-year history of the UIL Baseball State Tournament, but only one of those no-hitters was thrown in a loss. Phillip Hennigan of Jasper High School didn't allow a hit in a 2-0 loss to Dumas High School in 1963.
- Several Austin venues have hosted baseball state championship games including Disch Field, Nelson Field and Burger Center. UFCU Disch-Falk Field and Dell Diamond currently serve as the tournament's host venues.
- Texas had the highest baseball participation in the country with 45,959 student-athletes that participated in 2012.
- As of June 1, 2013, more than 75 former Texas high school baseball players have made an appearance in a major league baseball game this season. The Pittsburgh Pirates are the only MLB team without a Texas high school graduate on its roster.

ACADEMICS

While many states only offer athletic competition for their students, the UIL offers the most comprehensive literary and academic program in the nation.

There are more than 30 academic events students can compete in creatively and intellectually at the elementary, junior high and high school levels. More than half a million students participate in UIL academic activities each year.

The UIL academic contests exist to complement the academic curriculum, are designed to motivate students as they acquire higher levels of knowledge, to challenge students to confront issues of importance, and to provide students with the opportunity to demonstrate mastery of specific skills.

MUSIC

Each year approximately 750,000 students reap the benefits of participation in UIL music events at the region, area, and state levels. The purposes of the UIL music contests are to provide statewide music competitions that foster high performance standards, nurture aesthetic development and reinforce the many functions of music within society. In addition, the UIL Music Program is designed to support and enrich the teaching of music as an integral academic component of the public school curriculum in the state of Texas.

Participants in UIL concert, solo, and small ensemble music events choose their performance selections from the UIL Prescribed Music List, which is recognized internationally as one of the most comprehensive music repertoire lists of its kind. Consequently, the PML serves as a substantial resource for choosing the curriculum that is used to assess student achievement on the secondary music portion of the Texas Essential Knowledge and Skills.

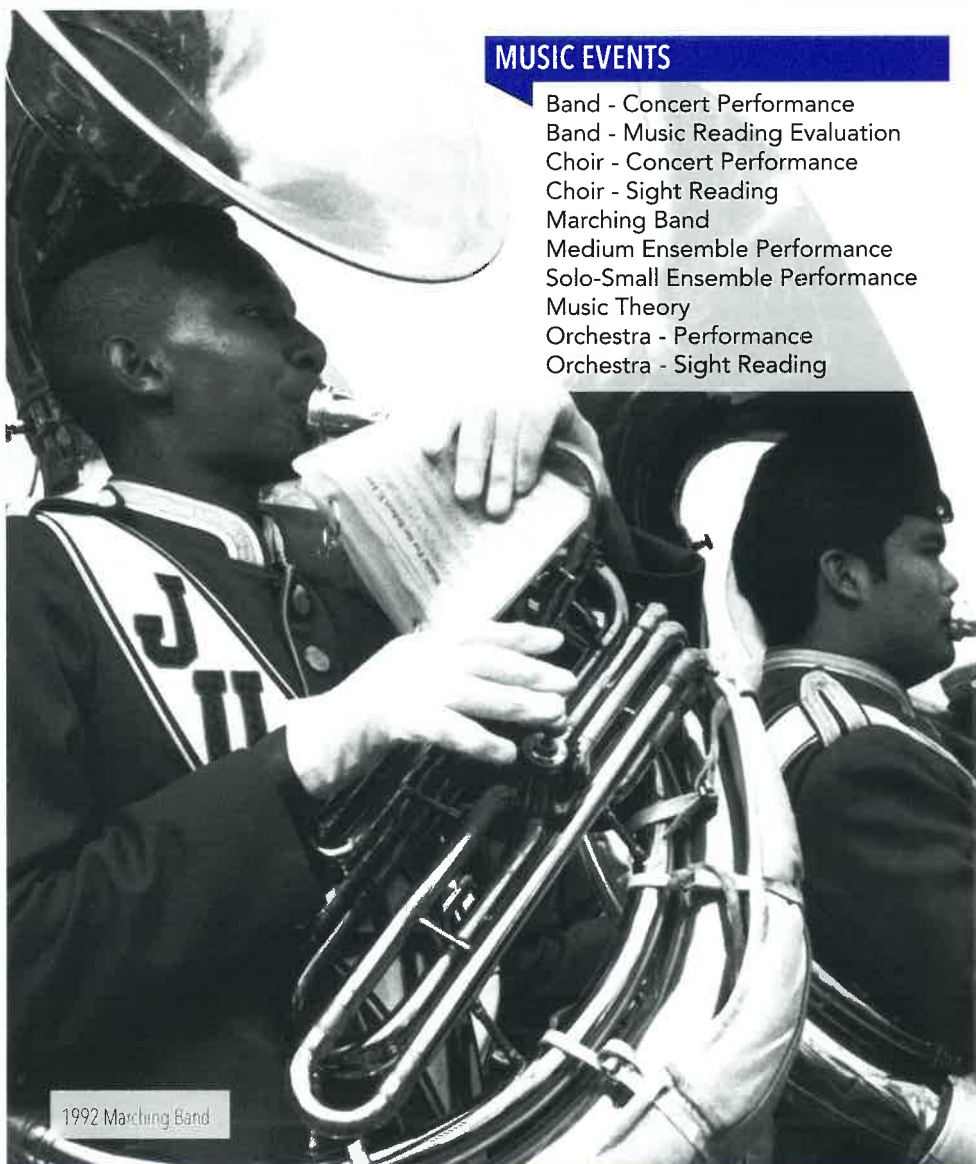

It is our vision that participation in UIL music promotes a lifelong appreciation and love of music and culture through the highest levels of achievement and artistic excellence.

ATHLETICS

The UIL is the largest interschool organization of its kind in the world. It has more than 800,000 high school student-athletes, and more than 450,000 junior high student-athletes participate each year.

The UIL provides services to its over 1400 member schools in the organization and administration of region and state championships in 14 sports.

More Texas high school students participate in athletics, than in any other state. For the 2011-12 school year, almost half a million boys and over 300,000 girls participated in UIL athletics. In total more than 800,000 Texas high school students participated in UIL athletics last year, an increase in 20,000 participants from the 2010-11 school year.

It is the goal of the UIL that through athletic participation, our student-athletes will become well-rounded individuals through the lessons they learn both on and off the athletic arena.

UIL SPONSOR EXCELLENCE AWARD

The UIL Sponsor Excellence Award, now in its 22nd year, was created to identify and recognize outstanding sponsors who enable students to develop and refine their extracurricular talents to the highest degree possible.

Winners were selected by a panel of judges in the areas of academics, athletics and music from nominations submitted by school principals and superintendents across the state.

Each winner receives $1,000 and a distinctive trophy from the UIL in recognition of their outstanding achievements.

TEXAS INTERSCHOLASTIC LEAGUE FOUNDATION

The Texas Interscholastic League Foundation was founded in 1959 by former UIL Director Rodney Kidd for the purpose of giving scholarships to the academically talented. The first scholarship was valued at $300.

Since then, TILF has given more than $26 million to over 17,000 exceptional Texas high school students.

This year alone, the foundation is awarding more than $1 million in scholarships to approximately 625 students across the state.

The TILF has in excess of $10 million in endowed funds and receives direct scholarship grants each year of more than $800,000 from foundations throughout Texas. These grants have proven decisive in many students' educational careers.

To be eligible to apply for a TILF scholarship, students must have participated in the UIL Academic State Meet or been selected as an Outstanding Soloist at the Texas State Solo and Ensemble Contest during their high school career. For more information or to apply, visit tilf.uilutexas.org
